VIP'S ENJOY TIME ABOARD THE RAHAI'I PANGUN

HRH Prince Henrik, Prince Consort of Denmark, was thrilled with his cruise on the Rahai'i Pangun. Passing Pulau Kaja Orangutan Release Island with Lone Droscher Nielsen, BOS Foundation's Danish Project Manager, Prince Henrik found much to discuss. Prince Henrik was given a wonderfully warm welcome by villagers. Later, on board, he vastly enjoyed the giant river prawns served for lunch.

More recently, the Rahai'i Pangun has hosted a Dutch Government Delegation, an Australian Parliamentary Delegation and a visit by George Soros, in his role as UN Climate Change Ambassador.

MAGAZINES CONTINUE TO FEATURE THE RAHAI'I PANGUN

Simon Pitchforth, a popular Jakarta journalist and blogger, took a few days break from his hectic life in Jakarta, to relax and unwind on the decks of the Rahai'i Pangun. A 3 page feature article appeared in the Jakarta Java Kini, a full colour glossy magazine read by many expats living in Jakarta. It stimulated many enquiries.

KTD NOMINATED FOR ECOTOURISM AWARD

The Responsible Travel website have nominated Kalimantan Tour Destinations for their Responsible Tourism Operator Award. Applications have now closed, with awards to be announced at the World Travel Market in London in November, later this year. Have a look at our tours at <http://www.responsibletravel.com/Trip/Trip101939.htm>

This is a superb opportunity for Kalimantan Tour Destinations to promote our cruises and tour products in one of the world's biggest trade travel fairs, attended by many tour buyers and travel journalists.

LONG RAIN SEASON IN MAGICAL LAKES

This year rains have continued to fall through the dry season, filling the rivers and lakes. Guests explore in canoes with local villagers, navigating through narrow water ways and across broad black water lakes, long ago cut off from the river's course. Calm and quiet, the black waters reflect perfectly the jungled banks. Glimpses of proboscis monkeys, and splashes of colour of the birds, are often enjoyed.
